Director’s Report:

Finance
- Nothing new to report.

Ventures
- The Assistant Director extended job offers to two Librarian I level librarians and both have eagerly accepted our offer. Deidra Garcia, will assume her duties at the Woodbridge Public Library on November 24th as the new Adult Services/YA programming librarian at the Main Library (pending approval of the residency waiver). She comes to Woodbridge Public Library with considerable young adult programming experience and familiarity with current technology and social media services.

- Brinda Patel will begin her new duties in the Children’s Library on November 23rd, 2015. Brinda has been heading up the Children’s Department of a smaller library, performing eleven story-times a week; she also speaks both Hindi and Gujarti. Both new hires have between five and eight years of experience and should be able to adjust quickly to our policies and procedures. We welcome these new additions to our professional staff.

- The Next Chapter Book Club met at the library this past month due to ongoing construction at the Menlo Park Mall. The participants continue to enjoy reading the story about a boy with attention deficit disorder. We are reading approximately two chapters a week now! The club will meet again on November 18th and we will determine a few days ahead if we can return to the mall. The Menlo Park Mall food court is an ideal location and provides easy access for the members. We are hopeful we can return to this location, but it will depend upon the construction progress.

- We received approximately 120 boxes of books from the now closed Our Lady of Peace school library. We accepted their donation as they wanted to get the books out of the building. Since they are in good condition, we contacted the Community Center and Pam Luks, who coordinates activities for ESL and after school care for the Highland Grove preschool and aftercare program. They have selected the books they wish to use; and, we will offer the remaining to other interested parties. Anything left over beyond that will be recycled and we will receive ten cents a pound for the paper.

- Children’s services supervisor, Nancy O’Grady, reports that the final steps are being taken to create the “test site” for the Spaces module for meeting room reservations. Neeta Pereira from the Administration department will be inputting all the reservations through February of next year and we will begin testing the mechanics of the spaces reservation system immediately.

Administration will have the control to approve or deny applications based upon criteria specified in the meeting room policy. Librarians who reserve meeting room space for programs and for student class visits will be able to input their own reservations, thus eliminating many phone calls and emails to Administration. All staff and librarians will be able to access the Evanced calendar to see what is booked or pending, which will improve overall communication throughout the library system.

Physical Plant
- On Tuesday, October 20th, the temperature at the Main Library fell below 60 degrees at 9:00 in the morning. This was due to a faulty valve in the boiler. Based upon the AFSCME and Teamsters contracts, once the temperature (from the second floor thermostat) falls below this level for two consecutive hours, the staffing is supposed to go to a “skeleton staff.” Employees are offered the opportunity to go to a branch or go home.

- The Township has accelerated the boiler replacement work at Main.
  - The nonfunctioning boiler has been replaced with two state-of-the-art units at a fraction of the size of the original unit.
  - Each of the new units has a capacity of 2 million BTUs.
  - The total cost of the 2 installed units is about $450k, which is being covered by the township.
  - The second old heating unit, which is original to the building and is still functioning, will be replaced in 2016, again with one state-of-the-art, high-efficiency unit, and again with the cost covered by the Township.
  - The heating capacity of the 3 new units will be 6 million BTUs, which will exceed the original units’ capacity of about 5.4 million BTUs.
• Quotes were received for maintenance of the branch HVAC services, Main chiller, Main elevator, Main temperature control equipment, Main water treatment equipment, and for library system and pest control services.

Staff Development

• Patty Anderson, Assistant Director, attended an all-day Adult Services forum at Monmouth County Library on October 26, 2015. The keynote address, given by Erica Freudenberger, of the Red Hook Public Library in New York State, focused on the Future of Libraries. The major emphasis today is to focus on community engagement and getting out of the building to market the library services and to form partnerships. Another shift involves getting away from ownership of materials/collections to access to large digital collections, such as Hoopla, (movies, TV, audiobooks) and Flipster (online magazines). See the addendum to this report for a full outline of the day’s workshops.

• The November 17th workshop on how to prepare quality performance evaluations was cancelled due to a scheduling conflict by the presenter. The Assistant Director will try to reschedule something in the near future for the supervisors.

Monmouth County Library
October 26, 2015

Erika Freudenberger, Director of the Red Hook Public Library, New York State

(I apologize for any errors or omissions as these notes were taken by hand and no handouts were provided.)

Erika started off giving a little bit of background about the “millennial generation” and how their thinking has shifted from previous generations. They have moved away from “ownership” and have focused on “access” to things, including technology. Examples: Airbnb, zip cars, Uber—all focus on immediate access not ownership. With regard to technology, being able to demonstrate value is important. How will this new product/service improve my quality of life or “access” to information?

While the following models for service work and are useful the shift is toward “community engagement.”

Previously—PUSH—toward outreach, marketing and public relations

PULL—focus groups, surveys. Still useful, but the new emphasis is on GATHER—tap in to the community and utilize their expert knowledge—involve people from the community in your programs.

Question: Do you know what your public really wants? If you haven’t been out of your building recently, you can’t possibly know. Get out of your comfort zone—attend the Chamber of Commerce meetings, Rotary and other events locally. In the community of Red Hook, the library has partnered with Bard College Center for Civic Engagement.
Shift in Thinking: (away from the focus on the library—toward the community itself)
Ask yourself how does this Partnership/collaboration improve our community?
What changes do people want to see in the community that involve the library?
If job training/career development is part of the library’s role, what kinds of classes and specialized career workshops should the library be providing?

(8) Lessons we need to take to heart:
* Leave the building and be proactive to tap in to the community—This does not have to be the Director. Appoint someone as the Outreach Coordinator for Adult Services. Head of Children’s Services should go out to local nursery schools and do a theme-based program off site. Hand out registration cards to take home and/or calendars of library programs.
  * Find out who the “leaders” are in the community to partner with
  * Be creative (partner with companies like Home Depot, Lowes for home improvement classes, or with a local Animal Shelter—sponsor a “dog/cat adoption night.” Partner with Shop Rite and offer Nutrition classes or classes on healthy eating for diabetics, etc.)
  * Discover, delight & empower your staff
  * Support Local Businesses—promote the “Buy Local App” and other local endeavors
  * Community Redevelopment—step up to help other organizations—like the local Veteran’s Assistance Center or Arts programs
  * Gather public knowledge
  * ???

At Red Hook, they utilized the “ASK” exercise (an ALA initiative) going door-to-door. They asked the following questions:
1) What are your aspirations for this community?
2) How does this differ from 5 or 10 years ago?
3) How do we (the library) help meet these desires?

Instead of going door-to-door, a survey or focus group could be conducted to learn more of what the general public wants from the library in the future. Are we meeting the needs of our users? 55% of people now have smartphones and yet many do not really know all the various uses and apps that pertain to the phone they have.

Marketing the Library: Think of new ways to market the library’s services—radio PSA’s, passing out cards/flyers at the train station or at the local bagel shop.

SIMPLY TALK MEDIA

Speaker: Diane Thieke, From Simply Talk Media
Tell your story—A good “story” sells and communicates a message. This is called socializing your marketing efforts.
A little bit about Millennials: born between 1981 & 1996. 83 million. Surpassed Gen X in the workplace now. Taylor Swift connection—she forms an EMOTIONAL CONNECTION with her fans. Sounds a bit hokey, but social media is how this demographic communicates—Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest and many more.
Marketing Trends: 86% of people skip commercials
  Society is going Paperless—44% of direct mail is not even opened 36% of public do not know what services the library offers
  50% use a mobile device and shop 24/7
MUST HAVE A RESPONSIVE WEBSITE with a MOBILE APP
Get a presence on YELP—popular app

Marketing Opportunities:
Technology is second nature to Millennials
Passions for this age group: Careers and Parenting & Healthy Eating
Very Visual—able to multi-task well
Mobile—will move at least five times or more and many globally Storytelling—content is more important than advertising (people often remember the ad/story but can’t name the product that was advertised) Maria Sarapova brings in approx. $20 million in endorsements a year, but how many products can you name that she sells?

Personalize your service: put a face to the story—some libraries have their staff faces on the website with a personal connection about what books they read/follow. Very well received by the public for Readers’ Advisory. The public likes to know the face behind the recommendation. Instead of the website, flyers with staff “picks” could be posted with small photos.

Make your audience the Hero (similar to our Community Heroes Summer Reading Celebration)
Ideas: Holidays around the World—celebrate everyone’s multi-cultural background. Have tables representing holiday themes/customs/clothing from around the world or a tasting session based upon holiday traditions.
Give the public a reason to celebrate with you…Similar to the 50th Anniversary. Make up reasons to celebrate—ex. 100 days until spring (have a gardening program on bulbs or deer resistant plants, etc).
Interviews with Patrons: (ask the right questions)
• Technology—how has it helped your life?
• How has the Library changed in your lifetime? What do you miss about the “old days” when you were a child?
• How has the library influenced your child?

Content ideas for marketing: Visual tour of the library
Library History (timeline)
Reading tips (parent tips)
Homework Helpers—best practices for parents Feature a library service each month and highlight on website: (ILL, Readers Advisory, Reference, Children’s, Administration, etc)

Email: Still very effective (Millennials)
94% use it
77% of people prefer getting marketing material this way
4300% RETURN ON INVESTMENT FOR THE MARKETING CO.
#1 thing Millennials do on their cell phone—read email and marketing ads

TIPS for marketing:
• Coupons are very effective. People love them. Give out free coupon for one free movie, computer class or library tour
• Personalize the message
• Create a “Call to Action”—ask people to do something, e.g. SIGN UP FOR CARD TODAY or REGISTER FOR ...

Best Practices:
• Be mobile ready
• Set a consistent delivery ___
• Simplify with Templates
• Add Social Media/Sharing Buttons
• Have a Social Media Strategy—speak, connect, personalize, promote
• Social Media defines your brand message—businesses spend about an hour a day on Social Media. Marketers found that as little as six hours a week was enough to increase sales.

Facebook: 1.49 Billion active users
1.31 Active mobile users
71% adults are on Facebook
Seniors (65 & over) 56% are on Facebook
Women 77%
Median # of Friends 155 (millenials—250 friends median)
Teens 71% (#1 choice for Social Media)

Report of Friends of the Libraries: None

Report of Board of Trustees President: President Peggy Mayerowitz thanked Director Christine Murchio for her service to the Woodbridge Public Library.
Report of Board Members: Board member Rick Silbon reported that there were leaves on the sidewalks at the Inman and Iselin branches. He said that this could cause a very slippery situation.

Board member Anthony Terebetsky apologized for missing several board meetings due to his work schedule. He congratulated Director Christine Murchio on her retirement. Anthony also asked that the American flag at the Henry Inman Branch be replaced because of its worn condition. Carol Eberhardt, Barbara Ciocci, and Ray Zirpolo also thanked Chris for her service at the library.

Board members will each be sent a copy of the signed Teamsters contract.

Board member Ed Mullen said he told Andrew Bernath to mail out all the signed November 2015 checks prior to Board approval in December so that no late fees would be incurred.

Ed Mullen said he’d called Jersey Professional Management with questions in regard to the Board’s contract with them and explained the payment schedule to the Board. Ed also talked about bringing in the interim director and what her job will be while they are searching for a new director.

Board member Ray Zirpolo asked why the library was hiring an interim library director. Board President Peg Mayerowitz said that this was the way to go at this time. Board attorney Craig Coughlin answered that the Township was looking into the future vision for the Woodbridge Public Library.

Assistant Director Patty Anderson asked if there would be a job description for the interim director. Attorney Craig Coughlin replied that it is up to the board and that there should be a job description.

Ed Mullen asked that the minutes from the September Board Meeting be amended to reflect that Director Christine Murchio announced that she will be retiring on January 1, 2016. No formal motion or second motion was made to amend the minutes. A copy of the director’s retirement letter was included in this board packet.
