Councilwoman Meehan abstained from Resolution #38.

Council Vice President Anderson moved the adoption of the foregoing Resolutions. The motion was seconded by Councilman Spillar and carried unanimously.

Public Meeting:

Council President Ficarra: We are going into the public session of the meeting. When approaching the microphone please state your name and where you live. Videotaping is in that corner. Just be kind to each other. Thank you very much. The public portion is open.

Scott Gawrych, Woodbridge: Offered to donate his sheet music stand for the people speaking at the microphone during the public comment portion of the meetings. Spoke about being narrowly focused on tax policies, mentioning his credentials at a past meeting so that people watching the meeting would understand his background and the rebuttal of which some of the Mayor's credentials and his past position as Treasurer were mentioned, giving him the expertise to manipulate the narrative. Believes that Council should be doing their research on the P.I.L.O.T.S. before voting for them, working for the public and keep checks and balances for the Mayor. Will be attending the next meeting and asking Council for specific opinions and justifications on why they voted for a 30 year P.I.L.O.T. for the Woodmont Property in light of his data proving that a 15 year plan would be better and would like it said on camera.

Council Vice President Anderson: I think that nine out of nine of us disagree with the Mayor on a lot of things. But, we have conversations with him and we do review a lot of the information. As you mentioned, you are narrowly interested in one area. We cover a lot of areas and there are some areas that we may not be as strong in and we do rely on the Mayor. Through dialogue and conversation, I think we come out as a unified team and that we are in agreement. If we haven't agreed on something, Council President and the Mayor have pulled it until we were all feeling better about something. If I thought I was going to vote no on something, I would ask questions in advance. I want to support the vision that our Council has along with the Mayor. We try to work as a team. I think that best suits the Township when we work together. One of the things that you don't see us doing up here is disagreeing all of the time because we do work a lot of that out before we come on camera. And I think that does a better service for the Township. I'm sure you could probably go to a couple of different towns that you have mentioned and see some very exciting council meetings. And we have had some exciting council meetings before but we try not to. We try to have Council meetings where we are working together behind the scenes so that we can come out and have a uniformed meeting.

Council President Ficarra: Mr. Mayor, did you want to make a comment?

John E. McCormac, Mayor: When you close.

John M. Mitch, Municipal Clerk: Are there any other comments from the public? Hearing no other comments from the public, can I get a motion to close the public comment portion?

Council Vice President Anderson made a motion to close the public portion of the meeting which was seconded by Councilman Spillar and carried unanimously at 6:15 p.m.

John E. McCormac, Mayor: Thank you, Council President. As a C.P.A. since 1980, I'm pretty much black and white, data is data, and numbers are numbers. I don't deal in grey. I look at what is presented and evaluated. Mr. Gawrych prepared his own Pro forma of the Woodmont P.I.L.O.T. Let me explain to you all the things that are wrong with that Pro forma. He started with the financial statements and the Pro forma that the company sent us as part of their application. We never accept carte blanche when a company says what the financials will look like. We challenge their interest rates, assumptions on expenses, and assumptions on property tax increases.

We basically adjust and prepare our own Pro forma. In this case, we thought their Pro forma was a little too rosy and thought that they understated expenses. We thought that maybe they didn't use the proper interest rates, which are very difficult to project. But you might ask why a company would want to present a rosier picture of their finances when they are looking for a tax break, when normally they would want to show that they need the tax break. As you know from the national media, it is not proper for somebody to present one set of financials to a bank showing a very rosy picture when they want a loan and to present a completely different set of financials to another entity such as a taxing authority and they want to pay as little tax as possible. I don't know why the company presented what they did but we broke it down to what we think the numbers are based on the size of their building, what fire district they are in and other factors that go in to an assessment.

The analysis points out that the project is cash positive after the five years. And that is entirely meaningless. Nobody cares about the year that it turns positive because it doesn't account for the first years when it was negative. And you really have to look at the first year that it's cumulatively positive. Which means the gains in subsequent years have made up for the losses in the first years. In this case it's not five years that it's positive, it is five years that is first turned positive. But to say it is positive cash flow after five years is incorrect. It's not right. It's positive cash flow after about nine to 10 years.

His analysis also does not account for the additional equity that you have to put in to the project after the initial equity infusion which in this case was $38 million dollars. There are additional millions of dollars that have to go in the first several years while it is not making money, spinning off positive cash flow or profits. So that changes his numbers. It also does not account for the concept of present value. Present value of loss is in the first five years, there is a lot more today than the present value of gains in year six through ten. So any financial analysis has to account for present value. It ignores the fact that there was a 12% limit on developer profits on the statute of P.I.L.O.T.S. It simply cannot make more than 12% in any single year. His analysis did not account for that. There is also a very important factor with P.I.L.O.T.S. called Crossover Impact. If at any point the property taxes turn out to be greater than what the P.I.L.O.T. is requiring to be paid, the whole analysis crosses over and property taxes are paid. That is quite complicated. We have to pick a formula to multiply the normal taxes by a factor, 20%-100% which is up to us to negotiate at any time during the 30 year period. In this case we believe the property crosses over in the last several years and we'll get more than his analysis shows because he didn't account for the cross over impact which is on pages 11 and 12 in the financial agreement, which he has. It is important that the life of the bonds we are issuing to cover the projects be considered. As I said the very first day he was here, that is a very important fact.

Our schools are going to last at least 30 years but from a Bond standpoint, they're going to last 30 years. If we go to rating agencies to rate the bonds, and we say we've got revenue for 15 years to pay these bonds that are going to be 30 years, they'll laugh us out of the office. The P.I.L.O.T. really should match, and in the case of the P.I.L.O.T.S. that are dedicated to the schools, which are most of the Downtown projects because those are more related to the schools than the warehouses, we absolutely want a 30 year revenue source to pay back a 30 year expense source. The bigger aspect, and this is where the analysis that he has goes completely off the rails, he assumes that after 15 years taxes go back to the Board of Education. He's got an excel column in there that says $2.7 million, which is what the Board of Ed would have received in property taxes according to him had there not been a P.I.L.O.T. That is not how taxation works in the State of New Jersey. And people that want to know this can easily check with their tax collector, their CFO or any number of people. That's not how taxation works. Nobody pays taxes to the Board of Ed. The Board of Education, like the County of Middlesex and all counties and all Board of Ed's and like the fire district and like the town, all calculate the amount of money to be raised by taxation without regard to what the tax base is and without regard if there are P.I.L.O.T.S. or not. It doesn't matter. The Board of Ed adds up all of their expenses, subtracts their revenue, number one of which is State Aid, they subtract interest income, they subtract tuition, and they wind up with the amount to be raised by taxation.

That's limited by law to a certain percentage increase over the prior year. The appropriations are limited by law to a certain percentage increases of the prior year, but they wind up with the amount to be raised by taxation every April and they give us an A4-F Form and they say this is what we need you to give us from July 1 of that year to June 30 of the next year. We then divide it by 12 and we send it them. It's not based on any individual property owner. When the Hess building was sold to the Turnpike Authority it went to non-taxable from taxable. It didn't impact the school budget. When Woodbridge Center opened, that's on the positive side, it didn't impact the school budget. The school does their budget based on their needs and they tell us how much they want and we send it to them. After 15 years nothing goes back to the Board of Ed. This whole analysis says that 15 year P.I.L.O.T.S. are better because of the money that goes back to the Board of Ed after 15 years and it doesn't. It also says $1 million goes back to the State after 15 years and it actually doesn't. Those are flaws in the analysis that once zeros are put into those columns, the whole thing turns around, forget the cross over and the present value and all those things. The numbers just don't work. The P.I.L.O.T.S. are good for the Township of Woodbridge. And I will say it like I say it all of the time, not once has any Superintendent, and we have had three or four of them, not once in that period when I was CFO or Treasurer or here, did a member of the Board of Ed question us. And they've had dozens of them. Nobody from the Board of Ed has ever complained. And if they were hurt by P.I.L.O.T.S., where are they? They are not here. They can come to a Council meeting or call my office. I spend a day per week with Joe Massimino in his office or he is in my office. And we are working on a Bond now for next year that is going to be fantastic and it's going to be paid for with 30 year P.I.L.O.T.S. That's what we are doing and that is what we recommend to you. And look, it is quite insulting to say you need to understand everything about this. You're not lawyers, you're not engineers, and you're not architects, you're not appraisers, you're not accountants and auditors. You're everyday people elected to office to represent the people of this town and you're not supposed to be experts in anything except serving the Public and you are really good at that. So, don't accept criticism because you don't understand P.I.L.O.T.S. the way I do. The way you don't understand, I'm a Certified Municipal Finance Officer, degree in Accounting, M.B.A. in Finance. I know this stuff not because of my degree but because I spent 8 year in a CPA firm. I spent the next 13 years in my own CPA firm. I spent 10 years as the CFO of the Town, four as the Chief Financial Officer and Treasurer of the State and 17 years as Mayor, where the most important job is the budget. We spent eight hours today working on finances. Don't feel bad because someone says you're not doing your job. You do your job and you do it really well. And I want to echo what Councilman Kyle Anderson says. We work together and you ask me questions all the time. And I explain it to you all the time and I think you understand it and I think you believe me. And just by pointing out the serious flaws in this financial analysis, put a zero in those two cells and come back to me and tell me what the numbers say. They say his theory doesn't work because nobody gets money back after a P.I.L.O.T. is over. Just like nobody got hurt when the Hess building went nonprofit. Just like no school board budget doesn't benefit when a new project comes on. It's just not the way it works. We are going to continue. I will always recommend 30 year P.I.L.O.T.S. to you. That's better for the town and that's what we care about. We care about the financial health and the future of Woodbridge Township's finances. Thank you.

Council President Ficarra: Thank you. We are going to move in to our Agendas now and I am going to start.

As we prepare to re-enter school, there is a strong need for crossing guards. Please go to our township website for the employment opportunity center and also you will see a link for substitute teachers. There are some special considerations for substitute teachers being made if you do not have 60 credits or more. They are taking people who are students that have 30 credits as long as they are enrolled in one college class at that point and they could apply for a substitute teaching.
